DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Holz (DE 37 32 086 A1)

Claim 1

Holz teach all the limitations of claim 1 by showing in figs. 1-4 a car body for a rail vehicle, including a plurality of beams which are arranged to carry an outer sheet casing of one or more wall element (14), wherein at least one of said beams (1) includes an attaching member (5) which is integral with the beam and which defines a recess extending substantially in the longitudinal direction of the beam (1), for engagement with at least part of one or more components (16, 13) intended to be supported by the beam (1).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Art Unit: 3617

4. Claims 5, 7, and 9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Holz (DE 37 32 086 A1), as described above, and in view of Hanni et al (US 5,287,813).

Claims 5, 7, and 9

Holz discloses all of the limitations of claims 5, 7, and 9 except for a car body including a plurality of beams made of either aluminum or steel with a substantially T-shaped recess, wherein the beam being arranged to support a floor, a side-wall or a roof (37) of the vehicle. The general concept of using a plurality of beams made of either aluminum or steel with a substantially T-shaped recess, wherein the beam being arranged to support a floor, a side-wall or a roof (37) of a vehicle is well known in the art as illustrated by Hanni et al which disclose the teaching of a plurality of beams (7, 20) made of either aluminum or steel with a substantially T-shaped recess (15), wherein the beam being arranged to support a floor, a side-wall or a roof (37) of a vehicle, see abstract section, col. 1, lines 41-54, fig. 2. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to modify Holz to include the use of a plurality of beams made of either aluminum or steel with a substantially T-shaped recess, wherein the beam being arranged to support a floor, a side-wall or a roof (37) of the vehicle in his advantageous car body as taught by Hanni et al in order to minimize the number of components necessary in the fabrication of the car body, facilitate maintenance of the car body while reducing the weight of the vehicle.

Allowable Subject Matter

Art Unit: 3617

5. Claim 6 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims. None of the references of record suggest a car body wherein the beam includes a sheet with a substantially constant thickness and that the attaching member is defined by the shape of the sheet in the manner defined in the instant claim 6.

Response to Arguments

6. Applicant's arguments filed 09/26/03 have been fully considered but they are moot in view of the new grounds of rejection.

Applicant's argument that Gutridge et al fail to disclose a beam according to the present invention which is operative to carry an outer casing of a car body and simultaneously provide direct support for internal components has recited in the currently amended claims has been fully considered and as a result new grounds of rejection based on Holz are being set forth. Holz reference disclosing all the features of a beam having an attaching member which is integral with the beam and which defines a recess extending in the longitudinal direction of the beam for supporting one or more components of a car body as explained above constitutes the basis of the new grounds of rejection.

Conclusion

7. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

Art Unit: 3617

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
